

Noureddine Hamdi (Eng. Dr. Full Prof) received a Ph.D. in materials sciences and environment in 2008 at Sfax University. From 2014 to 2020 he is the director of the Higher Institute of Water Sciences and Techniques of Gabes (Tunisia). He was participate in several internationals projects and has been a Fulbright Lecturer at Case Western Reserve University (USA) in 2016. His research interests cover the field of composites materials, new materials for wastewater treatment, synthesis of new minerals materials (Geopolymer and ceramic membrane). Noureddine has served on many conference committees in the field of materials engineering, environment and water, H-index:24.